

PolyCello Wins Environmental Award for Sustainable Operations

On June 1st PolyCello was presented with the Environmental Excellence in Business award from the Dalhousie University Eco-Efficiency Centre.

The Centre’s mission is to “act as a practical and cost effective extension service that engages both large organizations and small and medium sized enterprises (SMEs) in improving their environmental and economic sustainability through education, research and service.”

It was a real honor to be given recognition from this organization as they are very much leading experts on sustainability in the business world.

